

Free Trade Against Prosperity.

In the last week's Appeal to Reason the following statements are made: Three million unemployed men tramp the streets of the United States to-day looking for work. On March 7 a special edition of this paper will be issued, setting forth an array of terrible facts proving that capitalism has failed to provide jobs. These three million men will be summoned as witnesses to prove these statements. This edition will contain letters from the men themselves. There will be stories from the wives and children, the whole making a human document such as never before came from a printing press.

Such a condition would seem to be a very strong appeal to the voters of the United States. Here we have reference made to the vast army of unemployed. In another paper we notice the farmers' complaint about the reduction in the price of things he has to market. From the West comes the statement that the sugar beet industry will go out of existence after this year, some of the plants having already closed down and the laborers there thrown out of employment. And lastly comes the statement of a banker who has studied the financial legislation. "We do not know where we are at."

These conditions should appeal to the reason of those who supported the Democratic policies in the last campaign, the adoption of which has created such a disturbance in our industrial system.

The Democratic theories of government do not work out in practice as well as they sound like they would when declared in a campaign. Last year hardly an idle laborer who wanted a job could be found; the farmers were bringing great wealth into their communities through the sale of their products at high prices; the sugar industry was increasing the wealth of the country and furnishing work to a large number of laboring men who are now looking for work; and the banking life of the country was in the full flush of prosperity.

There is not a doubt but there are matters to correct in our finances and in our tariff schedules, but the radical and to our institutions unnatural measures of the Democrats have caused disastrous results in nearly every phase of our industrial life.

The Republicans will make no appeal to the reason of the voters and the reasoning voters of this country will bring the Republican back to restore prosperity and give employment to every man deserving it.

Will Unite Under The Old Banner

There are enough Republicans in the country and believers in Protection to sweep Democracy out of sight, but a divided Republican party brought Democratic victory, and we now witness the spectacle of a minority party and a Free Trade party in a Protective Tariff country writing a competitive Tariff law and enforcing it! To remedy this condition and restore the golden days for the farmer, manufacturer and workmen, which long prevailed under Republican policies, the party with new, progressive vitality will unite under the old banner inscribed with the slogan typifying Progress, Protection and Prosperity.—Lewisburg (Pa.) News.

$71,000 ROBBERY

Although details have not been given out a package addressed to a local bank containing $71,000 in U. S. treasury notes was taken and a package of magazines substituted. The substitution was not found out till the package reached the bank when the cashier found the bundle of "Laff" magazines. He started to read some of the stuff and became so interested that he agreed with the bank directors to make up the loss if they would place him on the subscription list of "Laff" for life. In order to get you in a good humor and help you forget even your big troubles, domestic or financial, we will agree to send you "Laff" for one year at the ridiculously low price of fifty cents.

This National Magazine of Fun is making greater strides than any other magazine before the American public today. It is a magazine that will keep the whole family in a good humor. The staff of Laff contains artists, caricaturists, and writers who rank among the best in the country. It is highly illustrated and printed in colors. It will keep the whole family cheerful the year round. You can afford to spend $5 a year to do this. Send this clipping and FIFTY CENTS today to the Publishers of Laff, 1450 N. Dayton, Ohio, for one year's subscription. The regular price is $1.50 and we are making this SPECIAL OFFER to get acquainted.

FOREST NOTES

Connecticut has one and a half million acres of timberland, mainly in farmers' woodlots.

India is developing an important turpentine industry, though it does not yet supply the home market.

Only one wood, Spanish cedar, (Cedrela odorata) is commonly used for cigar boxes. Sometime a cheaper wood may form the basis of the box, with paper-thin veneers of the tropical cedar over it.

It has been suggested that certain kinds of timber on the national forests be reserved for the needs of the navy. This recalls the fact that the first forest reservations in this country were made for naval material.

The department of agriculture is trying to eliminate the danger to cattle from poisonous plants on national forest ranges. Of these plants, larkspur, loco weed, death camas, and water hemlock are the most poisonous. Larkspur does the most harm, because it is so widely distributed and is particularly bad for cattle. Ordinarily, horses will not eat larkspur, and sheep can eat it without apparent injury.

The sheet which newspaper readers hold in their hands each day is made of wood. If one looks closely the little wood fibers can be seen, especially in the margins where printing does not obscure them. The larger part of the wood so used is ground up, while some of it is reduced by the action of chemicals. The chemical pulp has the longer fibers and a certain proportion of it is added to the ground wood to give the finished paper the required toughness.

In the national forests there are many woods considered inferior by lumbermen. Yet they are available for purchase at low rates and many of the timber stands are readily accessible. The forest service, in its desire to utilize to the best advantage all of the resources of the federal timber holdings, has been seeking proper uses for these trees and has experimented in making pulp from them at its pulp laboratory at Wausau, Wisconsin, an auxiliary of the forest products laboratory at Madison. The Wausau laboratory is equipped with standard machinery and all experiments are carried out under conditions which duplicate commercial practice.

PROTECTION DAYS.

Yes, the furnace bars are rustin'. And the wheels are standing still. And the smoke's no longer comin' From the stacks upon the mill. There are thousands standin' idle. No matter where you gaze, They were busy makin' money In the good Protection days.

No, the truth cannot be hidden Or be put upon the shelf. You can read it in the papers; You can see it for yourself. How to aid the hungry jobless Cities are devising ways. Did you ever hear of such things In the good Protection days?

Yes, of course, it's idiotic. But sad, too, as can be. To take our work and hand it To some cuss across the sea, And to leave us broke and idle, Minus means and minus ways, Gee, whiz, what a change, brother, From the good Protection days.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

KNOX CIRCUIT COURT.

By virtue of the Knox Circuit Court, rendered at its January term, 1914, in the case of

R. A. Early, Admr. of Sarah Ford, Deed. Plaintiff

VS. Ida Rains, Guard, for Everett Rains, Jennie Rains, Ellen Berk, Rachel Bryant and Ida Rains, Deft.

I will, as Commissioner, on Monday, April 13th, 1914, same being first day of the April term of the Knox Circuit Court, sell at the Court House door in Barbourville, Ky., to the highest and best bidder, the following property, or enough thereof to satisfy the judgment in said case, amounting to $620.25, viz:—

A certain tract of land, situated on Barbourville Street, in the city of Corbin, Knox county, Ky., and bounded as follows: Beginning at a post at the large and Barbourville street, on the northeast corner of Lon Rodgers, assignee's Lot, thence southward with the said Rodgers line, and so as to include the said lane to a stake in Sol Floyd's line, thence eastward with the said Floyd's line to Jennie Rains' line, thence northward with Jennie Rains' line to Barbourville street; thence westward with said Street to the beginning. This boundary includes the lane between the Sarah Ford lot and the Lon Rogers lot, but the said Rodgers and his assigns has a right to use the said lane for a pass-way, and the said tract of land is worth about $1,500.00.

Said property will be sold on a credit of six months, or cash in hand, the purchaser to execute bonds with approved security, bearing interest at 6% from date until paid, having the force and effect of a judgment and retaining a lien on said property until the purchase money is paid.

Sale at 1 o'clock p. m. Purchaser must execute bonds as soon as sale is over, or the property will be immediately put up and resold.

Witness my hand, this 24th day of March, 1914.

W. W. BYRLEY, M. C. Knox Circuit Court.

THE LETTER "P."

Three P's would hence to the Senate go. Penrose, Palmer, Gifford Pinchot. But the P to be chosen by you and me Is the P that stands for prosperity. Which shall it be?

Palmer? who stands for Place and Power. The President's choice in a leisure hour; A brand-new Boss, but a Boss withal, Shall send him hence to the Senate Hall? Shall it be he? NO!

Pinchot? who stands for Conservation. Shall the student trees make laws for the nation? Full of fancies and freaks and fads withal, Shall we send him thence to the Senate Hall? Shall it be he! NO!

Penrose? who knows all the ropes and ways. From years of combat and strenuous days Spent in fighting for you and fighting for me, That our Country and State might prosper be, Shall we elect him? YES.

For he has the brains and the force withal, And knows the game of the Senate Hall. While new men sit back by the cold rear wall, Though full of ambition and o'er flowing with gall.

None of the rookies of the old State! A novice is dreadful to contemplate, so the P to be chosen by you and me Is Penrose, who stands for Prosperity. Shall we elect him? YES.

The king of Albania is going to wear a shirt of mail, but that fashion will never be popular among the girls unless it is made quite open-work.

The fashion news from Paris says gowns are more décolleté than ever, but it is pleasant to learn that clothing has not been entirely abandoned.

Daily Thought. Silence is deep as eternity, speech as shallow as time.—Carlyle.

Influence of Colors on Mind. Colors, it has been found, have a great influence over the mind. A child who suffers from a melancholy and cross temper may not be naughty but simply under the influence of green wall paper, while her little brother is happy and good natured as a result of the blue with which his room is papered.

Disturbed Education. Education was considered a disqualification in a servant a century ago. Even Hannah More, who did much to promote the Sunday-school movement, confined her curriculum to teaching the children to read the Bible, the catechism "and such coarse works as may fit them for servants." "I allow of no writing for the poor," she stated emphatically.

Oil for Paint. For mixing with paint linseed oil is the one which is most commonly used as an ingredient. Other oils might be tried and the best way to test their relative worth is to mix only a small quantity of paint and test the result. Linseed oil, when pure, is excellent, since it oxidizes and becomes thick on exposure to the air. It may be considered the best of all oils for use in paint, putty and other similar substances.

Strathcona's Tie to Scotland. Among the vast possessions of the late Lord Strathcona must be counted the little island of Colonsay, one of the fragments of the shattered west coast of Scotland. The snug island is the first haven which the storm-tossed voyager reaches after he leaves the shadow of the Mull of Kintyre and crosses the open sea past the terrible Torran rocks.

Terrible Thought. "Brethren," the old dandy preacher said, "right in dis yesh connection I wants you to stop and consider what a good man de Lawd was, how he made de moments of time consecutive 'mid simultaneous, fo', brethern, if our ancestors and our posterity had a both a been be'n on dis yesh yearth at de same time, think what a confusion dere would a been and what would we a been at!"

What Progress? How do you measure your stature as compared with a year ago? By the size of your bank account, by the applause you have won, by the wider knowledge you have gained, by the ideals you have reached, by what you have achieved for humanity? Compared with a year ago, what are you today as the result of moral reaction that the world's efforts have created within you?—School Education.

Old Beliefs Lost. Few are the beliefs and still fewer the superstitions of today. We pretend to account for everything until we do not believe enough for the humanity so essential to moral discipline. The phantasmic age has long been unfurnished of all its ingenious garniture. That glowing day has set, leaving none of its ethereal hues in our old twilight. We have lost something for which we have no substitute.

Pigeons Are Hardy Bathers. Pigeons are very persistent bathers. Whenever the horse trough is left uncovered a cheery white scum shows they have been there; and one bitter cold day when the plumbers turned a stream from the pipe they were repairing into an icy hollow the pigeons flew down and began plunging into the freezing pool.—From "A Farmer's Note Book," by C. E. D. Phelps.

Uncle Sam "Sizes Up" Employee. The United States navy yard perhaps has the most complete system for the qualification of applicants. It first indulges in a physical examination. Then comes a mental test, with the resultant questions as to fitness in any particular trade. Sometimes Uncle Sam goes wrong, but his lapses are comparatively few. He usually sizes up his man at the outset.

Bismarck's "Sacred" Number. Belief in the number 3 was almost a religion to Bismarck, for it ran like a vein of gold through all his dazzling career. He served under three months, and in three great wars and signed three treaties of peace. He was the father of the triple alliance, and from his three names and as many words in his family motto, "Strength in Trinity," and his three children, there was no period or undertaking in his life in which this "sacred" figure was not of the best omen to him.

Last Hole, Indeed. The story is told of an ancient Scotch golfer whose companion died and was about to be buried. The Scotsman struggled out to the cemetery to be present at the interment, and arriving there, did not know where the grave was. He summoned a boy with a whistle. "Whist, lad," he said. "It's a new course. Whaur's the hole?"

Light From Stars. The light we receive from stars of the first magnitude, like Vega, is equal approximately to a forty-thousand-millionth part of that of the sun. It is calculated that the total light received from the lesser stars is equal to that of 3,000 stars of the first magnitude, or a sixth part of that which is sent to us from the moon.

Hindu Temple in San Francisco. San Francisco has its Hindu temple, a strange-looking building, with queer ornaments and swelling protuberances on its roof. A gallery, ornamented with plants, runs around the upper part of the building, which is of wood, painted cream color. The general aspect of the building is Moorish.

Impressive Figures. The following calculation is interesting: Suppose one boy, aged ten years, determines to rise at five o'clock all the year round. Another of the same age, indolent and fond of ease, rises at eight, or an average of eight, every morning. If they both live to be seventy years old the one will have gained over the other, during the intervening period of sixty years, 65,745 hours, which is equal to 2,739 and a fraction days, or just 7½ years.

My Duty to My Neighbor. There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good—myself, but my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy, if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Differed as to Needed Sleep. Sir Philip Sydney calls sleep "the poor man's wealth," and he might have added, "It is every man's health." The "Immortal Alfred" of England divided the day into three portions of eight hours each, assigning one for refreshment and health of the body by sleep and exercise, another for business and the third for study and devotion. Bishop Taylor considered three hours and Richard Baxter four hours' sleep sufficient for any man.

Queer Hats of Soldiers. Korean soldiers wear black or brown felt hats decorated with red horse hair of peacock feathers, and hanging from the sides, over the ears and around their necks, are oval balls of porcelain, amber and a queer kind of gum.
